

ABSTRACT

Thermoplastic polyurethanes exhibiting slowed annealing, reduced crystallinity, reduced viscosity sensitivity to shear, and improved hydrolytic stability are provided by utilizing small amounts of a polyether co-polyol with a polyester polyol and a symmetrical linear chain extender with small amounts of a different size chain extender.